

THE UNIVERSITY OF SZEGED

WITHIN THE FRAME OF PANNÓNIA

SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAMME

ANNOUNCES A CALL FOR APPLICATION

FOR

short- and long-term student mobilities

for the spring semester of the academic year

2024/2025.

The following types of mobility should be submitted to the International Mobility Centre by the departmental and faculty coordinators until 30 September 2024 at the latest:

- mobilities for studies

The submission of applications for internships and student research is ongoing.

Eligible activities

Student mobilities

Student mobilities (basic, master, undivided, doctoral level):

- Mobility for study purposes (2-12 months, minimum duration: 60 days)
- Traineeship and recent graduate traineeship (2-12 months, minimum duration: 60 days)
- Mobility for research purposes (2-3 months): exclusively at master's, undivided and doctoral level; with a minimum of 7 completed semesters in the case of undivided training

Short-term student mobilities (basic, master, undivided, doctoral level):

- Mobility for study purposes (2-30 days)⁽¹⁾
- Mobility for research purposes (2-30 days): exclusively at master's, undivided and doctoral level; with a minimum of 7 completed semesters in the case of undivided training

Each period of study abroad, including the professional internship, must be part of the student's study program aimed at obtaining a diploma within the framework of any study cycle. The process of credit acquisition and recognition must be recorded by the institution receiving the support in the mobility agreement of the student participating in the mobility, furthermore The credits obtained, or the study/research activity or placement undertaken and completed during the mobility, must be matched by the sending institution to its own curricular network and training structure.

Overall, therefore, the activity carried out during the student's mobility period must be accepted by the sending institution and fully comply with the curricular structure, in a proportional manner considering the time of the student's mobility. Student mobilities can only be outgoing ones.

Predictable, eligible costs:

- scholarships;
- equal opportunities supplementary scholarships

Application information

1. Eligibility of applicants

Student mobilities: only enrolled and active students of the University of Szeged can apply. Stipendium Hungaricum scholarship students can only submit applications for participation in short-term project events organized by EUGLOH partner institutions.

2. Eligible countries and partner institutions

With the support of the Pannónia scholarship program, support can be applied for in any country in the world, if the University of Szeged has entered into a cooperation agreement with one of the universities in that country. In the case of professional internships, training and research scholarships, mobilities can also be granted by non-higher education institutions (e.g. clinics, companies), in which case an inter-institutional agreement is not required.

The University of Szeged prioritises mobility to EUGLOH partner institutions (Université de Paris-Saclay, Ludwig-Maximilian-Universität München, University of Porto, University of Lund, Universität Hamburg, University of Novi Sad, Universidad de Alcalá, Universitetet i Tromsø).

The list of eligible bilateral contracts is available on the following page:

3. Application conditions

- The sending and host higher education institutions are ECHE certified.
- The student is a Hungarian citizen or is studying for a diploma at the institution.
- Students must have an active student status during both the application and mobility periods.
- Although, according to the Tempus Public Foundation, mobility can be implemented from the first year, traveling abroad is recommended from the second year of higher education studies at the earliest.
- The student passed the institutional assessment.
- The applicant must complete the European Commission's test after selection (Online Linguistic Support - OLS) in order to check his/her language competences.
- A maximum of 12 months can be used for part-time training and professional internships per training level (Bachelor, Master and PhD), and a maximum of 2x12-month mobility periods can be used during undivided training, depending on the decision of the faculty.
- Students participating in the Master's program can submit an application in the 1st semester of the program; mobilities can be implemented in the 2nd and 3rd semester of the training.
- A content-agreed, written study contract must be signed before starting studies abroad. The activity carried out during mobility must fit into the student's training plan.
- At the end of the study period, the foreign host institution must issue a certificate of the completed study program and results.
- The sending institution is obliged to fully accept the activities undertaken in the study contract (min. 20 ECTS credits) and the activities completed.
- Students are also entitled to a study grant or other loan from their home institution during their period abroad.

Only the period when the student stays at the host institution is considered supported mobility, regardless of whether he participates in face-to-face, online or hybrid education according to the host institution's current regulations. Online courses taken while staying at home and to be completed at the host institution are not considered eligible for mobility, and mobility support cannot be paid for them.

4. The application process

Mobility applications are announced and judged by faculty and department coordinators based on the central announcement of the University of Szeged. Please send supported applications by September 30, 2024, exclusively electronically to the zilahi.tibor@szte.hu e-mail address.
